PROFILE

I worked in my own business. In it, I acquired leadership and responsibility capacity.

I am about to finish the software development program with an emphasis on web applications. I learned to handle programming languages such as python, java, JavaScript, and the agile Scrum methodology.

I will start to study full-stack web development at the Educamas foundation in December.

One of my goals is to create a foundation for teaching programming to the country's children to give them new life expectations.
